BE it enacted by Parliament in the Seventy-third Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

- |    |  |                               |
|----|--|-------------------------------|
| 1. | This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 2022.   | Short title.                  |
| 5  | 2. After article 21A of the Constitution, the following article shall be inserted, namely:—  | Insertion of new article 21B. |
|    | “21B. The State shall provide affordable adequate housing to all citizens in such manner as the State may, by law, determine.”. | Right to affordable housing.  |

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Housing is a basic human need. It is considered to be vital for human survival and essential for socio-economic development. India with a population of over 1.33 billion people, is the second most populous nation in the world. According to UN-HABITAT, India is home to sixty-three per cent. of all slum dwellers in South Asia. This amounts to 170 million people, seventeen per cent. of the world's slum dwellers. India's per capita income although rising, ranks 124th in the world. Approximately thirty-five per cent. of India's population still earns rupees sixty or less per day. Census 2011 reported 1.77 million homeless people across India or 0.15 per cent. of the country's total population.

The right to housing is the right to live in adequate shelter in security, peace and dignity. It is not merely having a roof over one's head, rather it requires an accessible habitable space that fulfills the basic human needs to personal space, security, adequate lighting and ventilation, safe structure, protection from weather besides its location, all at reasonable cost. Therefore it is the duty of the State to provide affordable adequate housing for all citizens.

In order to achieve the task, it is felt necessary that a provision should be made in the Constitution as part of the fundamental rights for the purpose. The Bill seeks to achieve the above objectives.

Hence this Bill.
