(3) The power to make the Statutes, Ordinances or notifications shall include the power to give retrospective effect from a date not earlier than the date of commencement of this Act, to the Statutes, Ordinances, notifications or any of them but no retrospective effect shall be given to any Statute, Ordinance or notification so as to prejudicially affect the interests of any person to whom such Statute, Ordinance or notification may be applicable.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

It has become necessary to intensify exploration efforts in the petroleum sector, with a view to achieve hundred per cent. coverage of all unexplored basins in a time bound manner. In this context, apart from technology, availability of adequate number of qualified personnel would be a prime requirement in the coming years. It is estimated that the gap between the availability and requirement of trained manpower in the field of petroleum technology in India would be about thirty-six thousand by the year 2019. The existing institutes are not adequate to meet the increasing requirement of technical manpower and they do not have specific orientation to the requirements of the petroleum sector.

2. The Central Government has, therefore, decided to set up Rajiv Gandhi Institute of Petroleum Technology (RGIPT) at Jias, District—Rai Bareilly, Uttar Pradesh to meet the shortfall of trained manpower in the petroleum sector. The Institute is designed to serve as the fountainhead for the nurturing of world class technical human resources capable of serving as the leaders and innovators of tomorrow in the field of petroleum technology and engineering covering the entire hydrocarbon value chain. The Bill aims to declare the Rajiv Gandhi Institute of Petroleum Technology as an “Institution of National Importance”.

3. The Bill seeks to achieve the above objects.
