ANSWER

वाणिज्य एवं उद्योग राज्यमंत्री (स्वतंत्र प्रभार)(श्रीमती निर्मला सीतारमण) THE MINISTER OF STATE (INDEPENDENT CHARGE) OF THE MINISTRY OF COMMERCE & INDUSTRY (SHRIMATI NIRMALA SITHARAMAN)

(a): Information & Communication Technology (ICT) infrastructure which includes both wire-line and wireless connectivity is necessary for e-commerce. India, at present, has about 480 million broadband users. Under developed ICT infrastructure, mainly in rural areas, can be a foremost barrier in the growth of electronic commerce. India is implementing a project to provision high speed optical fibre connectivity project namely Bharatnet for more than 2,50,000 Gram Panchayats. Also Cyber Emergency Response team has been established for cyber secured infrastructure.

(b) to (e): India has an Information Technology (IT) Act 2000, which provides legal recognition for the transactions carried by means of electronic data interchange and other means of electronic communication, commonly referred to as "Electronic Commerce".

IT Act, 2000, has adequate provisions to deal with data protection in digital form. This Act is based on the "United Nations Commission on International Trade Law" (UNCITRAL) model Law on Electronic Commerce. Government has enacted the Information Technology (IT) Act, 2000 (21 of 2000) including the amendments in 2008.

Further, IT Act, 2000 permits authentication through electronic signature as well as allows recognition of electronic records.

Section 43, Section 43A and Section 72A of the IT Act, 2000 provide comprehensive legal framework for privacy and security of data in digital form. Section 43A of the IT Act, 2000 and the Information Technology (Reasonable Security Practices and Procedures and Sensitive Personal Data or Information) Rules, 2011 mandates that body corporate, who collect personal data or information must provide privacy policy for handling of or dealing in personal information including sensitive personal data or information on their websites. They are also required to implement reasonable security practices and procedures to protect the information. Section 72A provides for punishment for disclosure of information in breach of a lawful contract.
