(Shri Jayant Sinha)

(a): No, Madam.
(b): The number of complaints during the last three years are as follows:

Year	Mixing of Meals	Quality of Food & Poor Catering Services
2014	1	44
2015	1	28
2016	1	47

As per the contractual terms with the caterer, suitable action has been taken on such complaints.

(c): Yes, Madam. To save costs, reduce wastage, improve service and also avoid any chances of mix up of meals, AI has stopped serving non-veg. meal to its economy class passengers.

(d): No, Madam.

(e): The food is supplied on board as per number of passengers on flight. As per the passengers' feedback through cabin crew, wastage occur when passengers do not partake the food. Air India does not maintain any record for the food wasted on account of non-consumption of food by passengers.

(f): The following steps have been taken by Air India to improve its catering services:

1. Introduced new improved menu
2. Doing away with food items not preferred by passengers.
3. Training of Chefs at International Stations on Indian Cuisine.
4. Taking up passenger and crew feedback with the caterers very aggressively.
5. Monitoring the quality / presentation of meal service closely and making surprise visits to caterer very often.
6. Immediate follow up deficiency of service noticed with the caterer, for rectifications.
