In order to promote further penetration of health insurance and for monitoring the orderly growth of the health insurance business, the IRDAI has laid down the robust regulatory framework by notifying the IRDA (Health Insurance) Regulations, 2013. Considering the ample business scope and the need for penetration of insurance, the IRDAI has also permitted the following, inter alia, a range of distribution channels for distribution of various insurance products including health insurance policies.

- i. Corporate Agents
- ii. Insurance Brokers
- iii. Micro Insurance Agents
- iv. Customer Service Centers
- v. Insurance Marketing Firms
- vi. Points of Sales

It is envisaged that introduction of these varying distribution channels helps in the penetration of health insurance.
